Morgan Partner Calls on U. S.
Banking World to Pro-

Washington—To what extent should nations go in permitting their citizens to lend money to other peoples? Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, in answering the question before the third Pan-American Commercial conference, placed the responsibility on the "commercial and financial sentiment of each of the countries." Thomas W. Lamont, partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan and company, speaking on the same day, before the American committee of the International Chamber of Commerce, calls upon his colleagues in the American banking world to protect the investor against the indiscriminate lending of funds to foreign countries and corporations.

Mr. Hoover's speech was significant in that he frankly said he did not advocate regulation of foreign loans by law. Up to now it has been supposed that the experience of the departments of commerce and state in interposing objections to foreign loans might have to be accompanied by specific legislation. The cooperation given by the American government without legislative interference has been of such character that the secretary of commerce feels reliance can be placed on the commercial and financial men to regulate the problem themselves.

Mr. Lamont, in his address, pointed out the coincidence on the same day and like Mr. Hoover's, prepared of course many days in advance, was in the nature of a warning to bankers.

"From the point of view of the American investor," Mr. Lamont said, "it is obviously necessary to see that the situation with increasing circumspection and to avoid rash or excessive lending. I have in mind the reports I have recently heard of American bankers and firms competing on almost a violent scale for the purpose of obtaining loans in various foreign markets overseas."

"Naturally, it is a tempting thing for certain of the European governments to find a horde of American bankers sitting on their doorsteps offering them money. It is rather demoralizing for municipalities and corporations in the same countries to have money pressed upon them. That sort of competition tends to insecurity and unsound practice. The American investor is an intelligent individual and can be relied upon to discriminate, yet in the first instance such discrimination surely is the province of the banker who buys the goods rather than of the investor to whom he sells them."

Mr. Hoover's main thought was that foreign loans should be made only for productive purposes. This is not a new doctrine, as it was first enunciated under the Harding-Hughes administration. For example, the United States has steadfastly discouraged the lending of money to foreign governments merely to balance budgets or to maintain military establishments. Mr. Hoover pointed out that loans should be discouraged "even for that type of public works which do not bring some direct or indirect productive return."

He feels that there would then be no danger about ability to repay and there would be less interference with the national independence of countries through loan restrictions imposed in order to assure collection.

In view of the American policy of urging reduction of armament, Mr. Hoover's speech is in line with the coming effort to be made at Geneva during the economic conference and the armament pacts to reduce the expenditures of governments for "unproductive purposes."

DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Santa Ana, Calif.—(AP)—Ernest R. Ball, composer of "Mother MacIntyre" and many other popular songs, died here Tuesday night from a heart attack as he was preparing to leave a vaudeville theatre where he had finished an engagement. He was in his dressing room when stricken.

Ball, who formerly lived in Cleveland, Ohio, recently moved to Los Angeles. The composer, whose songs have stirred the hearts of the last generation, had told Santa Ana friends he was not feeling well and when he appeared at a luncheon and pleaded illness to excuse him from singing. Although the most famous of Ball's compositions probably was "Mother MacIntyre," others that won a high place in popularity included "Let the Rest of the World Go By," "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold," "Boy of Mine," "Garden of My Heart," and "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

FARMER MURDERS

Self—Domestic Trouble
Given as Cause

Ontario, Wis.—(AP)—After slaying his daughter-in-law and wounding his wife, John Manley, father of 10 children, killed himself in a Kickapoo valley tragedy early Wednesday.

The elderly farmer shot Mrs. Amos Manley and wounded his wife before sending a bullet into his brain. The murder and suicide culminated a domestic disturbance which had lasted for several months.

Manley's wife, suffering from a shoulder wound, was taken to the home of neighbors where it was stated that her condition was not serious.

At 4 o'clock Wednesday morning, Manley was said to have arisen from his bed, secured a small caliber rifle and started on his ghastly mission. A short time later, the daughter-in-law and Manley lay dead in the home, while the wife of the slain man was taken away by her children.

Details of the shooting were lacking, but it was said that the domestic trouble began when Amos Manley, a son, returned from the west with his wife. He left home some time ago, it was said, while his wife remained with the Manleys.

Ontario, a small village of about 400 inhabitants, is located on the Monroe and Verona lines. The bodies of the two persons were found by neighbors and officers of the village who returned to the home shortly after Mrs. John Manley fled.

The name of William Schultz, town of Bovina, Wednesday morning went on the records of municipal court as drunken driver.

Number 7 since the first of the year. He pleaded guilty of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg. He also was forbidden to drive his car for six months.

Schultz was arrested Tuesday afternoon on highway 54 in the town of Black Creek by Lawrence Newland, county motorcycle officer.

"I'm a good man, but I just got my milk check and I guess I took a few more drinks than I should have," he told the officer.

The truth of this statement was verified when he attempted to walk. It was reported by the officer.

10 MILLIONAIRES FEAR
CHILDREN'S KIDNAPERS

Chicago—(AP)—Ten Chicago millionaires have appealed to police and private detective agencies for protection of their children against kidnapers. The Herald and Examiner said Wednesday. Police expressed the belief that while publicity given the scheme to kidnap 3-year-old John Schwenke, grandson of one of the heirs of the late John G. Shedd, had prevented the trapping of the plotters, it had served to arouse families of wealth to the menace which police insisted still existed.

LARGE AREA IS

Give 4,000 Square Miles
to Waters

New Orleans—(AP)—Devastation of northeastern Louisiana over a stretch of approximately four thousand square miles rapidly was becoming complete Wednesday as the madly racing Mississippi tore through its banks at two additional places between Vicksburg and Natchez.

A new army of refugees was sent on the march increasing the homeless in the great flood to around 250,000, and rich cotton, sugar cane, trucking, hardwood and oil gas lands were claimed, adding almost immeasurably to the staggering total of property loss.

Murky flood waters now cover nearly fifteen thousand square miles in Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi and the picture of desolation presented is appalling.

For hundreds of miles in Arkansas and Louisiana, the Mississippi there are only scattered places not under water. From Arkansas City almost down to Vicksburg, a stretch of more than 100 miles, as the crow flies, flood or backwater are everywhere.

Through the great Lakes faint lines of the levees may be seen. These levees have been the salvation of thousands who sought refuge there before the flood waters until rescue craft could be sent to move them to safer ground.

Roaring through four breaks in the Louisiana levees, developed during the past hours, the Mississippi flood waters were cutting wide channels in Madison and Tensas parish and rushing to meet backwaters from overflows on the Black and Ouachita rivers, as well as from breaks in the main levee around Glascooke.

The rescue machine set up by former Governor John M. Parker, civilian flood dictator under Secretary Hoover, was moving swiftly to care for the refugees and to move out those who clung to their homes in the face of warnings given by telephone and dropped by aeroplanes.

Below the mouth of the Red river, the levees were holding, but with the approach of the crest of the flood which already has crumbled levees to the north, apprehension is felt for the Turn to Page 19, Col. 1.

The petition, circulated by Assemblyman George Gaver, Milwaukee, socialist, and bearing among the others, signatures of the presiding officers of both houses, Lieut. Governor Henry A. Huber, president of the senate, and John W. Iker, speaker of the assembly, was mailed special delivery to the eastern state's executive Wednesday.

Problems

Geneva—(AP)—The great international economic conference, summoned to evolve plans to stabilize economic conditions throughout the world, was opened Wednesday in Reformation hall. Some 100 delegates were present, representing 466 nations—six including the United States, Soviet Russia, and Russia's non-members of league of nations—and the hall presented an even more animated and crowded scene than during meetings of the league assembly.

Former Premier Theunis of Belgium, president of the conference, in his opening address, declared that the world had never held a meeting so comprehensively qualified to study the problems which jeopardize "the two precious boons for which mankind is ever yearning—peace and prosperity."

The conference, he added, must help maintain peace by providing guidance in the economic field in the face of difficulties which made the world uncomfortable dangerous and sensitive.

BRITISH NOTE TO GIVE VIEWS ON WAR DEBTS

London—(AP)—Full exposition of the British viewpoint as regards the war debts is believed to be contained in a lengthy British note which has been dispatched to the United States and publication of which is set for Thursday morning.

News that the note had been sent caused surprise in London as there was no intimation of its existence until word was received that Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, had delivered it to the American State department.

The note is understood to be the outcome of the controversy over the war debt between the American secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, and the British chancellor of the exchequer, Winston Churchill.

The note is thought to be in the nature of a reply to Secretary Mellon's viewpoint that Great Britain is receiving more from her continental war debtors than she is paying annually to the United States under the Washington debt funding agreement.

THREE MORE WOMEN TO LIST OF VICTIMS

Chicago—(AP)—Chicago's "cat bandit," who preys on women, brought the number of his victims to more than 100 Tuesday night by snatching three women at 15 minute intervals.

Either was used by "The Cat" in one of his attacks. He halted Miss Germaine Servais, 20-year-old French teacher and threatened her with a revolver while with his free hand he pressed an ether-soaked handkerchief to her nostrils. She screamed as he was dragging her from the sidewalk, and he fled.

Two other young women who were held up by "The Cat" lost their purses but escaped harm. The screams of one brought help, while the lights of an automobile turning suddenly into an alley in which he had dragged his third victim drove the bandit to flight.

GRAY CONFESSES HE

GET DATA ON POISONDenies Active Participation,
However, in Murder of Her Husband

Queens-co Court house, N. Y.—(AP)—Henry Judd Gray secured information about lethal poisons for Mrs. Ruth Snyder, he testified Wednesday, but when she suggested his active participation in the murder of her husband, he refused.

Under direct examination in his own defense he said he asked him to shoot Snyder after her attempts with poison and with gas had failed and he told her "you will have to see this through alone." At noon recess he had but got away with his recital although he had already been on the stand for five hours.

Under the direct examination of his counsel, Samuel Miller, Gray said that in the fall of September, 1926, Mrs. Snyder told him that her affairs at home were unbearable and that she had definitely decided to kill her husband. Gray said he advised her against this. Later that month Mrs. Snyder said she had attempted to kill her husband by gas, but failed.

At a meeting with Mrs. Snyder in November, he said, she asked him about knockout drops but he refused to have any part in her scheme.

Toward the end of the month, he said, she asked him if there wasn't any way to get a doctor she knew to help her. He testified that he refused. "She told me she was going to make one more attempt alone," he said, "and if that failed, I would have to help her."

"I said that I would not do so, that I knew nothing about such things. She said she would ask a doctor she knew. I was friendly with, about knockout drops."

"I told her I would try. The next morning she reminded me of my promise and said she wanted the information right away."

Gray testified that Mrs. Snyder tested out on him means of killing her husband. To be sure that sleeping powders she had were strong enough, he said, she made him take them and after watching the effect, decided they would do.

not guilty, or there is a grave doubt as to their guilt." It asks Governor Fuller to prevent "a miscarriage of justice and a great wrong."

University professors and residents of the Italian section rubbed elbows Tuesday night at a meeting held in protest against the death penalty imposed upon Sacco and Vanzetti.

At the conclusion of the meeting, more than 1,000 persons stood and pledged support to a petition to be circulated over the city asking Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, to grant executive clemency.

Choosing a day when the governor was absent from the capital, the young couple left East Lansing by automobile, drove to Bowling Green and were married by the Rev. Paul J. Gilbert, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and then returned to Detroit.

The bride, who is 19, and Tyrell son of a Detroit investment broker, plan to return to school to finish their studies.

Southern Neighbors

Washington—(AP)—All nations in the Pan-American Union stand on a basis of absolute equality with the United States, President Coolidge declared Tuesday night in an address before the Pan-American Commercial conference.

"It is the often declared and established policy of this government," he said, "to use its resources not to burden them but to assist them; not to control them but to cooperate with them."

"It is the forces of sound thinking, sound government and sound economics which hold the only hope for real progress, real freedom and real prosperity for the masses of the people, that need to be constantly combined efforts of all the enlightened forces of society."

"Our first duty is to secure these results at home, but an almost equal obligation requires us to exert our moral influence to assist all the peoples of the Pan-American union to provide similar agencies for themselves."

NEW CIVILIZATION
"Our Pan-American union is creating a new civilization in these western republics, representative of the old world. We must cooperate in its advancement through mutual help, mutual confidence, and mutual forbearance."

Discussing improved trade relations in the western hemisphere, the president suggested a Pan-American conference on advertising. "We declared that advertising was the 'most important influence in enlarging trade' and 'of all forms of advertising that which results from personal experience and personal contact is most valuable.'"

"A conference of this nature, that will bring into such intimate relationship the representatives of the various producing elements of so many different nations," he said, "can not help revealing many new wants and many new resources from which they can be supplied."

ENORMOUS RESOURCES
"Our republics have resources of enormous value, and a constant increasing dependence of the whole world upon the products of their natural resources assures them of a continually enlarging commercial horizon. While our own country is desirous of participating in this trade,

Wires President

Madison—(AP)—Stressing early farm relief as the greatest need of the country, H. H. Peavey, congressman from Eleventh district, has wired President Coolidge, urging him to call a special session of congress and act upon some "constructive, practical and immediate agricultural relief."

"According to latest press reports," the telegram said, "a plan for agricultural relief to be presented at next congress has been agreed upon by yourself and Senator McNary. These reports will be read with interest by 30,000,000 farmers who have been victims of agricultural depression since 1922."

"Inasmuch as consideration of farm relief by next congress would be postponed until the crops are sold in the fall of 1925, whereas passage of farm relief now will make benefits available when crops are sold this fall, I respectfully urge you to call a special relief session of congress."

"I also urge congress to call for further purpose of providing urgent relief measures for thousands of inhabitants of flooded areas in the Mississippi valley."

"HOME BREW" BILL
IS ENGROSSED BY
BADGER ASSEMBLYTwo Brief Calls to House and Parliamentary Debate Preceded Action

Madison—(AP)—Parliamentary jockeying, interspersed with two brief calls to the house, preceded engrossment of Assemblyman Duncan's "bill of rights for the home brewer" in the lower house Wednesday, by a vote of 57 to 23. The bill provides that the Governor lawfully the state shall not apply liquor containing 2.75 per cent alcohol, or less.

Assemblymen Grandine and E. G. Smith led the fight against the bill, opposed by Assemblymen Baumann and Baker.

The first call to the house was moved by Assemblyman A. M. Miller but after it was learned that several members were absent with leave, it was raised, 60 to 26. Then motions to lay the bill over were defeated.

Cancellation of all leaves of absence, with the exception of two members, Schuette and Swanson, was voted followed by another call to the house. Twenty minutes later it was raised, and engrossment was voted after a motion to indefinitely postpone the bill met with defeat, 55 to 23. The final call, 55 to 23.

The bill was then taken up and was lifted when it was ascertained that nine legislators could not attend the session.

SCHOOL FINANCE BILL
One of the session's most important bills, affecting the financing of the state school system, was introduced by the committee on education for the state department of public instruction. It provides for equalization of apportionment of school tax funds, so that less populous districts, and hence those receiving less support, may obtain a larger portion of the tax moneys than at present.

The bill was laid over when Assemblyman Ingalls pointed out that it should be accompanied by a "proper system of financing." He asked that it be taken up later when an amendment might be added to raise this revenue.

After considerable debate, the state assembly Wednesday voted to indefinitely postpone Assemblyman A. E. Smith's bill requiring bank directors of Wisconsin to have five shares of stock in their respective banks. The bill had been recommended for passage by the insurance and banking commission of the legislature.

A bill by the assembly municipalities committee, allowing county boards to pay legislators up to $500 as legislative "expense money," thereby increasing their compensation to $1,000 for their two years terms, was ordered engrossed Tuesday night by the house.

After a long debate Assemblyman Weller's bill, providing for the election of members of the Milwaukee school board by assembly districts was ordered engrossed, after a motion for indefinite postponement was defeated by a vote of 66 to 2.

Assemblyman Swanson's bill for a 4 per cent tax on motion picture theatres receipts, recommended for indefinite postponement by the tax committee, was laid over when the bill's author failed to appear.

RELIGION PLAYS PART IN BALTIMORE ELECTION

Baltimore, Md.—(AP)—William F. Broening, Republican, accumulating an early lead which steadily increased as returns piled in, Tuesday was elected mayor of Baltimore by a majority of 17,475 over William Curran, Catholic, his Democratic opponent.

The religious issue played an important part in the election was indicated by the fact that Mr. Broening, pulled extremely heavy votes from the Catholic vote in the city when anti-Catholicism is regarded as finding no vigorous expression in politics. Three Democratic and Catholic candidates were defeated in a district heavily Democratic.

Los Angeles—(AP)—Charles Chaplin's fight to prevent his wife from airing her sensational divorce suit charges in open court resolved itself into a direct attack Wednesday as attorneys for the rich screen comedian moved to have the allegations stricken from her complaint.

Chaplin's lawyers Tuesday night announced they would go into court Wednesday with a demurrer to the divorce complaint and a motion to strike out its sensational features, leaving only the bare charge of cruelty upon which Mrs. Chaplin might base her suit. Several efforts have been made to prevent the details of Mrs. Chaplin's allegations from finding their way into the record.

Her original complaint declared Chaplin had admitted to her that he had associated "publicly and privately" with five prominent motion picture actresses. Thus far the actresses "have not been named."

Chaplin's answer to the original suit was to have been filed Wednesday, but this will be delayed as the result of the new attack by his counsel.

1,200 VISITORS AT EXHIBITS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Parents and Friends Learn What Their Children Do in School

More than 1,200 parents attended the school exhibits held at Washington, McKinley, Franklin and Lincoln schools Tuesday evening. The exhibits were supplements to "go to school nights" which were held this spring. Jefferson, Richmond, Columbus and First ward schools will hold similar exhibits Thursday evening.

Home building was stressed in the exhibits at McKinley school. Members of the practical arts classes built miniature homes which were displayed. The homes were finished by interior and exterior decorators, and were completely wired for electric lights. All of the work was done by pupils in the practical arts classes. More than 500 people attended the exhibit at the school.

At the Lincoln school the crowd was not as large as it would have normally been because of the scab fever scare of last week. However, approximately 250 parents attended the exhibit of handwork, art work and academic displays.

About 150 people attended the exhibits of art and academic work at Franklin school.

One of the features of the exhibit at Lincoln school was a hobby show conducted by the pupils of the fifth grade. The exhibit contained collections of stamps, cigar wrappers, match box covers, candy bar and gum wrappers, bird houses, carvings, drawings, sewings, post card collections and many other articles.

PERSONAL RELATIONS

IS GUAGE OF SUCCESS

E. K. Boyer of the Interlake Pulp and paper company addressed the Rotary club at its weekly luncheon at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon on Business Relations. He traced the development of industrial and business relations between employer and employee from the personal relationship of the master workman and the apprentice to the modern mechanistic age.

"A business either is an organization or an organism," he said. "The organization is a mere machine and the organism is a thing that can reproduce itself." He described the new era of "personalization," the return of the personal element into business and industry. There is equal opportunity to purchase all modern facilities for production for every business man but the gauge of his success, according to Mr. Boyer, is this "personal equation."

Ruth's Lawyer Furnishes Vaudeville At Her Trial

BY BLAND JOHANESON

Expert Vaudeville Critic

Long Island City, N. Y.—The vaudeville stage lost a superlative one-man act when little Edgar F. Hazelton said, "Daddy, I want to be a lawyer when I grow up and defend all our very nicest murderers."

The saving, dynamic counsel for Ruth Snyder's defense has every hokum trick of music hall entertainment at his command.

Ever since Hammerstein's Roof, it has become the general habit to examine every woman in a scandal case for her vaudeville possibilities.

Each fair creature's lawyer takes good care to circulate the advance notice that his client is an expert dancer, or singer of hymns, or put-ter-up of jams.

RUTH! NOT SO GOOD

But "Ruthless Ruth" Snyder so-bulled by reporters has appeared to bad advantage as variety material. She has too much dignity—not the proper vivacity, faint air of injury, kitchish mannerisms, or public sympathy.

It is her counsel, Edgar Hazelton, who steals her prerogative by offering her jury and a courtroom packed with 1500 Broadway scouts a complete vaudeville bill, including juggling, acrobatics, magic, sub-stuff, even laughs, entirely and utterly in solo.

The usually Ruth contributes as little as the stately shapely girls who stand upstage against the cyclorama, leaping forward only to hand their masters the wash-tubs and panto-lamps.

ONE TO REMEMBER

Trial juries notoriously are susceptible to vaudeville shows. Hazelton gives the Snyder-Gray one a bill to remember. Hazelton, who presumes to know what the Queens County tired business men like, does his stuff and, in the booter's vernacular, "has 'em laying out in the aisles."

His act includes everything. A typical Edgar Allen Woolf dissertation of mother love and "the little woman." A sad ballad of the city slicker, juggling a scotch bottle.

OFF WITH THE COLLAR

Tearing off his collar (a comedy bit he must have copied from Roy Cummings). Tricks of magic, in which two insurance men are called up from the audience to hold the eggs—in this case, policies. Tumbling, dramatic recitation, pantomime, and still more hokum.

The headliner's hottest number was his final—"She didn't wanna do it—He had that certain something—She begged him but he wouldn't stop—Blue—ooo—ooo."

As the Fillmore Mosevitzky, the big independent agent, remarked during the noon recess: "The skirt's a bust—too cold. She'd flop like a wet oyster. But Hazelton! He'd be a riot. That kid is there!"

Young Banker Is Head Of Giant Movie Merger

BY GENE COHN

New York — Barely more than a year ago he appeared in the film world—

Yet Joseph P. Kennedy, who was hailed at 25 as a "business genius," has steered the course of his company through channels that brought it up the other day in one of the greatest theatre-film mergers in motion picture annals.

INVOLVES HUGE SUM

This merger, which concerned the business end of the cinema industry far more than it interested the average fan, involves, I am told, a flotation of half a billion dollars and a film tie-up with a chain of theatres including the Keith-Albee, the Orpheum circuit in the west, the "West Coast Theatres," the Stanley Company interests, North American Theatres, Inc., and others. Distributing and producing interests include First National, Producers Distributing Corporation and Film Booking Offices.

It is over F. B. O. that Kennedy reigns and the presence of some of Wall Street's most eminent names in financing the deal may, perhaps, be at least partially due to Kennedy's financial history.

In January, 1925, this young man—still in his thirties—purchased F. B. O.

He had come from Boston, where he was born. His father was P. J. Kennedy, a former state senator from Massachusetts. At Harvard he made some slight athletic rep as first baseman on the college ball team.

When he left Harvard he took a political job as state bank examiner and a couple of years later found himself the youngest bank president in America. He was then 25 and headed the Columbia Trust Company.

Begetting a typical American "success story" he married the daughter of the Boston mayor, Rose Fitzgerald.

Thereafter he was variously general manager of a Fall River

FIVE STUDENTS TO SPEAK IN CONTEST

The winner will be awarded the Hyde cup given by Frank C. Hyde and will represent the school at the Fox River Valley District Extempore contest at Manitowoc May 13. The boy winning highest place in the contest will be entered in the state oratorical and extempore speaking contests sponsored by Lawrence college May 19.

The students have been coached this week by Miss Ruth McKennan. Friday they will be given one hour's time to prepare a speech on some topic in the past four months issues of the Literary Digest or the Outlook.

shipbuilding concern and of another business corporation.

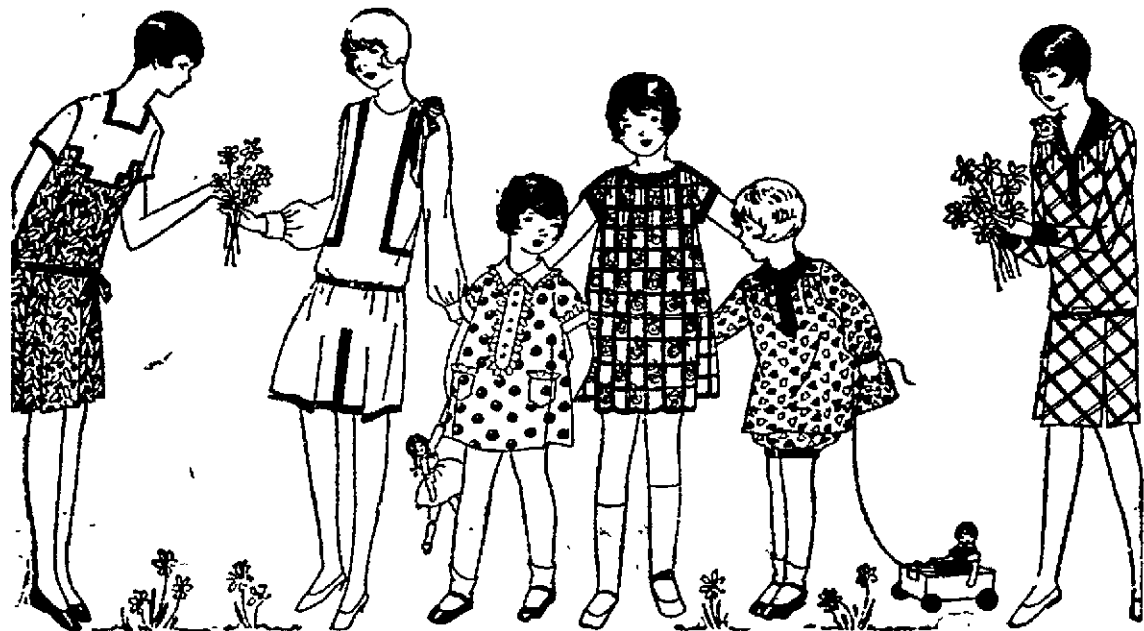

KEPT EYES ON FILMS

But his eyes were on the films. "When we lived in smaller Massachusetts towns we went often to the picture theatres," he recalls. "For, after all, they were the chief source of entertainment—almost the only place left for the majority of people."

He began studying the films, their operation and production. Suddenly, to the surprise of his friends, he appeared as the purchaser of F. B. O.—a complete newcomer to cinema and one of the youngest of the powerful figures, for he still is under 40.

CLUB HEARS PLEA
FOR BETTER HOME
FOR STUDENT NURSESSuperintendent of Hospital
Tells Kiwanis of Need for Help

Menasha—The need of a home for nurses of Theda Clark hospital was emphasized by Miss Jean Cruickshank, hospital superintendent, in an address Tuesday noon at the Menasha Kiwanis club luncheon at Hotel Menasha.

"I hope the time is not far distant," she said, "when provisions will be made to meet this need. Do you realize that patients are cared for principally with student nurses, who after six months probation are paid the large sum of $5 per month. Is it therefore too much to expect that tired nurses who are carrying many studies besides their practical work, should have comfortable rooms where they can study with the peace of mind that they can find in a hospital where they receive more individual training than in the larger schools?"

Another need to which Miss Cruickshank called attention was a contagious hospital in the vicinity where patients with contagious diseases can be cared for to protect the community from further invasion. "While our knowledge of the care of these cases enables us, to nurse certain cases in a general hospital with little risk to others, it is nevertheless a great danger to confinement and surgical cases to have the same nurses caring for such," she said.

The speaker said the total number of cases treated at Theda Clark hospital in 1926 was 1531, an increase of 140 over the previous year.

"I do not think this is due," said Miss Cruickshank, "to more people coming sick, but to the fact that people have become more educated to the advantages of hospital care. The prime object of the Theda Clark hospital is to relieve the suffering. It frequently occurs that those requiring hospital care are unable to pay for it. To meet this situation the hospital accepts as charity patients those who upon investigation prove to be worthy of this consideration.

"As you are aware all charity patients must be paid for by someone. If unable to be done by the hospital funds, then by the community in some way. Large cities have city hospitals, also free wards in the general hospital to take the needy cases without charge. In a community like Neenah endowed beds would meet this requirement, in fact, some patients might prefer to pay part in order not to be termed charity cases.

"It frequently happens that patients in poor circumstances are admitted and we find it impossible to collect later because of their inability to pay, not for the lack of will to do so. Others are admitted as charity cases." The Presbyterian church and Emergency society are trying to set up an endowment fund of $10,000. The Presbyterian church retains the hospital Sunday collection for this purpose. The Emergency society also is raising funds through tag day and other means. It also provides care for hospital cases and also supplies linen for the operating room and nursery.

"On Jan. 1, Mrs. Ernst Mahler very generously donated $10,000 for endowment of a bed for obstetrical cases who are unable to pay. This provides free care for 12 cases for two weeks.

"The constant challenge to the hospital world is to provide adequate hospital facilities without undue hardships upon the already burdened wage earner. With the great stress made in the study and treatment of disease during the past decade has come a rising cost in maintaining hospital beds that is out of proportion to the increase in the family income. This is more true of the large cities where ward beds are as high as $3.50 per day."

A suit brought by Kenneth Booth, 309 N. Richmond-st against Walter Plummer, sheriff of Winnebago-co, for $500 damages has been settled out of court for $100, according to Mark Catlin, attorney for Booth. Plummer also has agreed to pay the costs of the suit which was tried last winter in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg. The jury disagreed and was discharged.

Booth was arrested by Plummer at the Cinderella dance hall last fall when he was charged with disorderly conduct. After his arrest Booth threatened to beat up Plummer and the handcuffs were removed from Booth's wrists. It was alleged Plummer beat Booth quite severely in a fracas which resulted, Booth charged. Plummer was at that time acting as motorcycle officer in Winnebago-co and was on duty at the dance hall. Booth sued Plummer for $500 last winter but when the jury disagreed the case was postponed.

HOW CAN WOMEN KEEP WELL ENOUGH TO GET UP SINGING?

MRS. BELLE THOMPSON

3101 E. 44TH ST., EAST LAKE, TENN. Springtime streamed in through the open windows. The green fields of Georgia were basking in the sunshine. Somewhere a bird was trilling. It was a day to be happy. But the pale woman at the table sighed and pushed away her plate. Nothing tasted right. She couldn't eat much. She couldn't sleep well, either. She was so weak, it was hard to do her work. When the baby cried, she wanted to cry, too. She had not been well for four years. Her husband watched her with a man's helpless expression. But his mother knew a remedy.

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, 3101 E. 44th St., East Lake, Tenn., "told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sanative Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me on my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

Another Happy Woman

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me."—Mrs. Jessie Bollersman, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

CONNELLY, FORMER CITY ENGINEER, TO OPEN OFFICE HERE

Reengages in Practice as Consulting Engineer When He Finishes City Work

R. M. Connelly, former city engineer who was succeeded by L. M. Schindler on May 1, will open a consulting engineer's office in the Speicher building in the latter part of this week. Mr. Connelly will remain at the city hall for several days to help Mr. Schindler get started and to complete an inventory of stock and equipment.

Mr. Connelly was born in Chicago Feb. 25, 1892 and graduated from the Hayes public school and St. Ignace high school. He attended Loyola university at Chicago and received a bachelor of arts degree. After his graduation from the university he had charge of the construction of the Chicago Board of Education Supply building, a seven story structure. Mr. Connelly was but 18 years of age at the time.

He was foreman in charge of construction of concrete pavements in Chicago for the firm of Connelly and Dunning in the summers of 1912 and 1913. In 1912 he entered the University of Wisconsin and in 1916 he graduated in civil engineering.

Following his graduation from Wisconsin university he was employed by the Wisconsin State Highway commission, Green Bay division, on concrete road construction in Outagamie county in 1916. He took position with the firm of Sloan, Middle, Feustel and Freeman on the inventory and appraisal work of the Warsaw Gas Co., the Goshen Gas Co., and the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Co., of Chicago. The last appraisal was the largest ever made in America.

In 1917 he joined the air service of the United States army and served until 1919. After his discharge from the army he constructed the Nash school in Chicago for the J. L. Connelly Co., and then moved to Fort Wayne, Ind., where he was engaged as a consulting engineer.

He was married to Miss Mary Brill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brill of Appleton in January, 1921, and in 1923 was engaged as city engineer and street commissioner here succeeding Oscar Weisgerber.

Mr. Connelly stated that he had received three offers for positions if he would leave Appleton but that he preferred to make his home here.

POST WRITES BOOK ON MERCHANDISING

Work Is for Merchants Conducting Medium Sized Stores in America

Harold L. Post, merchandising manager of the Pettibone-Peabody Co., has written a book on merchandising for the medium sized store. It will be published in serial form in the Dry Goods Economist magazine and later in book form. The opening installment will appear in the April 30 issue of the magazine.

"Merchants conducting stores with a yearly volume of $50,000 to $150,000 are the backbone of the retail business of America, but their problems have never received the consideration they deserve from writers on retail subjects. Libraries have been written on the problems of the big city department store merchant but his colleague in the smaller town has been neglected," the economist editor commented. He called Mr. Post's book "one of the most constructive books ever written on merchandising devoted exclusively to the medium sized merchant."

"He describes practice—not theory," Mr. Post has had 23 years of experience in the dry goods business. Some of the topics discussed in the book are how to install a unit stock control system, how to build an efficient buying staff, how to estimate and control your selling costs, how to figure sales quota, and how to take inventory. They are analyzed in simple language.

RECKLESS DRIVING ORDINANCE WANTED

Measure Would Bar Four Persons from Front Seat of Car

An ordinance making it unlawful for four persons to ride in the front seat of an automobile probably will be prepared by Mayor C. Esser, city attorney, and presented to the city council at an early meeting. Transgression of the ordinance would make the violator subject to arrest for reckless driving.

George T. Prim, chief of police, has gone over the proposal with Mayor Albert C. Esser, and the latter is in accord with the chief's views, it is reported.

"When three persons besides the driver are in the front seat of a car, it stands to reason that the driver is crowded, and does not have the freedom to operate his machine that he would have were he alone, or with only one passenger," said Chief Prim. The practice not only lowers the driver's efficiency, but makes him a menace to the safety of other motorists.

Police recently have been arresting motorists who carried three passengers besides themselves in the front seats of their machines, booking them for reckless driving under the statutes of the state.

Pola Negri, Whose Tragic Loves Have Kept Her From Happiness For Years, Will Take Unto Herself A Prince For Her Second Husband

The first tragedy. The painter lover dies, though nursed by fiancée, Pola.

BY ALLENE SUMNER

New York—Pola Negri, dressed in expensive mourning even more becoming than the jeweled robes of a duchess, which she had so often worn on the silver sheet, swooned over the coffin of Rudolph Valentino less than eight months ago, proclaiming unto all the world that she was his one and only fiancée, that he loved her to the death, and that all joy had now fled from her life forever.

"Pola is cursed with an unlucky love," she moaned.

That was eight months ago. In a day or so now Pola herself will be married "somewhere" beneath the waxy white chestnut flowers of Paris.

The groom is Prince Serge Mdivani, brother of Mae Murray's newly acquired husband, the Prince David Mdivani.

WHICH DO GENTLEMEN PREFER? Thus will Hollywood's prize beauty and one of Hollywood's prize blonds become sisters-in-law, and engage, perhaps, in a friendly competition as to whether gentlemen princes really do prefer blonds or brunets, the answer being which one stays with her husband longer.

Thus, too, once more does Pola Negri, born Appolonia Chaloupce, tempt the jealous Love Gods who have hounded her from the time, when a young girl in her teens, she had what she calls her "one great love," only to see him snatched from her by death.

That was the beginning. In the years that followed, Pola Negri's beauty and charm, fascination, call it what you will, brought her the offerings of love from men of every clime, every nation, every walk in life.

HER FIRST LOVE Sometimes Pola herself intervened—threats, blackmail, lost love, and finally Death itself.

I enter this marriage with my breath stilled," Pola says. "Something will happen. Something always does."

It was while playing in the Imperial Theater of Warsaw, Poland, that Pola's "first real love came." He was a young Polish painter who begged to paint her portrait. They were engaged. The wedding day was set. Then he fell ill and died of consumption, nursed to the end by his dark-eyed actress betrothed.

LOVES HAVE KEPT HER FROM—510 Pola vowed never to love again—never to be "so hurt by loss."

But love came again soon and with it marriage.

HER FIRST HUSBAND Pola was returning from her home in Warsaw to the theater in Berlin where she was playing. At the border town of Sassnowice she was stripped of her jewels by the Polish customs authorities.

Pola stormed and raved. She WOULD NOT return to Warsaw for a permit. The customs men sent her to the commandant.

The commandant kept her waiting five hours. That was because she haughtily sent in word that she was Pola Negri herself.

After five hours she saw the commandant. He was Count Eugene Dombalski.

"The instant I looked into his eyes I knew my fate," Pola told the tale. The jewels were returned. She delayed her trip and visited his mother in her castle there. Four months later she was the Countess Dombalski. The honeymoon was spent in a remote hunting lodge. Then they returned to the ancestral castle.

About this time Pola remembered that she had a movie job in Berlin. She had been "in between pictures" when she met the count. Now came a summons to return to Berlin at once. The count was obdurate. He had married his picture actress. She would stay in his castle. The climax came when, at the height of the quarrel, he drew a revolver and told her she would not leave the castle.

"In the dead of night," Pola sneaked

Stripped of her jewels by rough customs officers on the Polish border, Pola meets her future husband, Count Eugene Dombalski, commandant of the stations.

Pola Negri

And in America two more love affairs. Her engagement to Chaplin was suddenly broken. Death broke Pola's engagement to Valentino.

Pola Negri

But this marriage ended tragically. Pola left Dombalski's castle, where he threatened her with a revolver because she wanted to return to the movies.

Pola Negri

And now? Will happiness or tragedy result from Pola's marriage to Prince Mdivani?

Pola Negri

Pola Negri

from the castle, went to Berlin, wrote her count that she would never return, and a divorce was granted him.

Life came in the picture once more when, at the time of his wife's reported engagement to Charlie Chaplin, he invited via cable that worthy to a duel, declaring that the final divorce papers had not gone through, and that Pola was still his wife.

Pola is said to have proved otherwise.

The Chaplin engagement was but one in a long chain of love affairs forged by Pola when she came to America in 1924. Pola had met Chaplin in Berlin the year before. This friendship was renewed in Hollywood.

It was not long before Pola announced her engagement. Charlie had little to say about it.

Then one day, wet with tears, angry, hurt, Pola announced that there was no engagement—that she was "not a rich enough girl for Charlie. He must marry much money."

Still Charlie said nothing, and very shortly married Lita Gray.

Charlie was but the beginning. Pola was rumored engaged to Rod La-

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C.

Doctor of Chiropractic

QUESTION:—I am a woman of 39 years and need advice. I am not at all strong, hardly able to do my housework, no appetite, rest poorly at night, have headaches and my back aches across the hips. I have doctored for years without help, and one has been able to tell me what causes it, can you?

ANSWER:—Pressure on nerves causes your poor health. I, as a Doctor of Chiropractic deal with the cause. The cause is due to nerves being pressed upon, over which flows a current of life force (mental impulses) from the brain to the body or organs. The nerves, as do all others, originate in the brain and follow down the spinal cord to the spinal column. The spinal column is composed of small bones (vertebrae) that are movable, and the nerve trunks pass out from the spinal cord through small openings between these little bones (vertebrae). These small bones slip out of their regular positions sometimes, and this pressure decreases, or cuts off the normal life force upon which the body is dependent in order to be healthy and function properly. When the pressure is removed from the nerve trunk by Chiropractic adjustments, the organs must return to normal health. This is true with every disease, depending upon what region of the spine is involved. I advise you to consult a competent Chiropractor.

QUESTION: Do germs cause disease as claimed by various doctors? What is your view of the germ theory?

ANSWER: Chiropractors do not deny what can be seen with open eyes. Consequently they believe in germs, but they do not believe that germs cause disease. Germs are scavengers and live on diseased, decayed and dead tissue. If you find a dead animal full of scavengers, do you suppose the germs killed it? Are they not there to eat the dead body? There are very few diseases which are possible when the individual's general health is perfect, or nearly so. If the germ theory were correct there would be no one living to believe it.

Women Secure

against lost charm, this new way of solving oldest hygienic problem—offers true protection; discards like tissue

BY ELLEN J. BUCKLAND Registered Nurse

SHEER gowns and ill-timed social or business demands hold no terror for the modern woman. The insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops all danger of offending.

✓ Discards like tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX." Be sure to get the genuine.

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

"SINGING FIREMAN" IS GUEST OF DEPARTMENT

Thomas H. Donnelly, 32, the "Singing Fireman" of Lawrence, Mass., who is on his way to the fire chiefs convention at Portland, Ore., from Aug. 7 to 12, was a guest of the local fire department for a short while Monday. He entertained members of the department with a number of songs.

Without funds and upon the condition that he accept rides only from motorists, he left his home about eight weeks ago for his long walk to Portland. He cannot ride trains or trucks. He is doing this to carry out turns of a wager which he lost.

George P. McGillan, fire chief, gave the singer a letter testifying that he had visited the local department.

CHIMNEY FIRE IS PUT OUT WITHOUT DAMAGE

A chimney fire at the August Winter residence 125 N. Story-st., was put out about noon Tuesday by the fire department. There was no damage done, it was reported by the firemen.

Barbers Hold Meeting
The Appleton Barber's union will meet at 7:30 Monday evening in Trades and Labor hall. Routine business matters will be transacted, according to W. E. Smith, president.

HARD FOR CAR OWNERS TO AVOID ASSESSMENT

Leaving the "old bus" hidden in the garage or in some out of the way place will not enable automobile owners to escape the assessor in his annual tour because a complete list of every automobile in Appleton and its owner is on file at the assessor's office in the city hall. Cards were sent to owners of automobiles this week from the assessor's office and owners have been asked to supply certain information about their cars which will help the assessor make his assessments.

Many people have tried the old trick of "forgetting" to register their cars and fail to return the assessor's card but these "forgetful" ones are soon reminded, sometimes to their embarrassment.

MUSIC BOX REVUE

The fourth edition of Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue" coming to Fischer's Appleton Theatre on Thursday May 12, is said to have all the qualities that this type of entertainment should have. It moves swiftly, is ingeniously and artistically staged, and is brightened by a company of high class entertainers. We are told that one is completely carried away by its scintillating beauty, dazzled by its shimmering color, its brilliant ensemble and imaginative settings.

Of the thirty or more scenes of the revue, some of the high spots are "Little Old New York," which Times Square of Rip Van Winkle's day; "Alone in Wonderland," "In Tokio," "On Fifth Avenue," "New York Harbor," "Springtime," "The Garden of Eden," "In the Shade of the Sheltering Tree," "At the Circus and the Levee."

The company is an exceptionally large one, numbering about 100 entertainers, and includes Nyra Brown, Dave Burns, H. "Curley" Monnett, Ames Harper, Charlotte Grant, Sonia De Calve, Henry Thompson, L. L. Benson, Joe Smith, Jenny Land, the Six Jolly Jesters, Snyder and Sifrit, Mitzi Hayes, Jeanette Brown and many others, together with the Famous Music Box Girls. The entire revue was staged under the direction of John Murray Anderson.

JETTA GOUDAL'S NEW ROMANTIC PHOTOPLAY IS "FIGHTING LOVE"

Jetta Goudal, the petite, dark-eyed, exotic film star who has been called the "emotional cocktail of the screen drama," will be seen in another of her striking characterizations at Fischer's Appleton Theatre, opening on Thursday, Victor Varconi and Henry E. Walthall are featured.

The picture is "Fighting Love," described as a romantic drama of love and intrigue ranging from the castles of nobility of Italy to the African desert, with Miss Goudal in the role of a young girl of the Italian aristocracy who, in order to escape marriage with the disreputable scion of a great family, Niccolini, whom she dislikes, accepts the hand of an aged soldier, General Navarro.

Hardly has her marriage been consummated that her husband is summoned to Tripoli. Vittoria follows him, only to find that the General has gone into the desert at the head of his troops to quell an uprising of the Arabs. When she discovers that this is only a ruse to get rid of her husband so that Niccolini may be alone with her, Vittoria leaves Tripoli accompanied by the handsome young adjutant of the General.

During the twelve days' journey across the burning sands to Ghali, the girl and the adjutant discover they are deeply in love. Vittoria remains true to her husband, and when she reaches Ghali, resolves to make General Navarro, for whom she has a profound respect, take her for his wife. But Navarro's concern for his country blinds him to all softer sentiments, and he leaves Vittoria to join his waiting troops who are marching on Kereb to repel an incipient Arab attack.

From here the story moves to a swift and startling conclusion, in the course of which Vittoria and the adjutant are captured by the Arabs. When word is brought that the General is killed, Vittoria and her lover are married.

FOX FILM AT BIJOU

The story of "Love Makes 'Em Wild," at the New Bijou today and Thursday, concerns an office worm who, when romance strikes, turns into a roaring lion who "takes it out" on all those who previously made life miserable for him.

Johnny Harron plays the part of the worm who turns. Sally Phipps plays the girl and we want to go on record right now as saying that Miss Phipps is one of the most charming actresses we have had the privilege of seeing in many a day. She has a personality which is distinctly individual, to say the least, and flirts across the silver sheet with a grace which would become an actress' of many more years' experience.

BELL RINGERS TO PLAY TWO CONCERTS HERE

Georgette's Famous Players of Musical Novelties and Swiss Ringers will appear in two concerts at Memorial Presbyterian church at 2:30 in the afternoon and 8:30 in the evening Saturday under the auspices of the Ladies Aid society of the church.

A special program for children has been arranged when the artists will explain their instruments and the effects to be produced. Selections will follow the explanatory talks. The change from instrument to instrument keeps the bell ringers' audience full of continuous anticipation.

Popular concerts are given by the company everywhere, critics have said. In Atlanta, Ga., the players were asked to give a return concert and both engagements were financial and artistic successes, it was stated.

Georgette's players are the oldest independent attraction now before the public, it is said. This company has toured 17 successive years with only one change in the personnel of the company.

The new and novel instruments will please the children as well as the adults who hear these concerts, according to descriptions of their past performances. They are the original company of Swiss bell ringers, and the other instruments add both to the uniqueness and artistry of the performance.

NEW LONDON YOUTH IS PAROLED TO BROTHER

He was arrested by the sheriff's department on the night of April 24 at a dance hall in the town of Greenville for carrying a revolver.

REPORT ONLY 1 MORE SCARLET FEVER CASE

Only one case of scarlet fever was reported to the health department since the epidemic started last week, according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer. The case resulted in the town of Grand Clute near the home where the scarlet fever originated. It was expected by the health authorities that more cases would result within a week but from all indications it seems that the quick work of the school nurses has succeeded in checking the epidemic.

Use Phonograph Records In Course At Lawrence

Because students cannot appreciate music unless they hear it, Lawrence college has a course in which 300 phonographs are used.

Instead of hearing dull lectures by professors in the musical appreciation course, attempting to extol the value of certain compositions by elucidation on the black and white sheets, a record is turned on and the class is in session.

The plan, according to Prof. John R. Frampton is based upon the idea that appreciation in any art requires actual contact with that art, if only in reproductions of its masterpieces.

"A person could read all the works on music in the Congressional library," said Professor Frampton, "and not be one whit more appreciative of music unless he heard the music itself, or already understood the art."

"The college course in appreciation of music is primarily one in hearing phonograph records of the master works of piano literature as played by the greatest pianists. It includes a hearing of about 300 compositions, representing about forty composers and as many different artists.

"Appreciation also depends upon a knowledge of the work to be seen or heard, its purpose, and the ideals of the period in which it was written. As one writer tersely puts it, we must know whether to expect a bowling alley or a nave."

"And so the compositions are studied in part as to form, and some twenty-five different types and forms of composition are explained. Incidentally, comparative studies are made of some of the compositions as played by different artists, so that the student comes to know the ideals, the points of special strength or weakness of many of the greatest living pianists."

Although very few records other than piano performance are used, the students are fitted to appreciate music in other media, because most of the forms explained are used in all types of instrumental music. The course presupposes no knowledge of music on the part of the student, but is as non-technical and inductive as possible.

Professor Frampton has a library of almost 1,500 piano records from which to choose material from the course.

SYMPHONY FROM MINNEAPOLIS HAS WIDE REPUTATION

Henri Verbrugghen, Director,
Also Well Known in Musical World

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra which will play two concerts at Lawrence Memorial chapel May 12 as a part of the Appleton Spring Music festival May 12 and 13, has a name and fame in every corner of the musical world. The reputation of its conductor, Henri Verbrugghen, as a director of Beethoven music is equally well known.

Discerning musicians in England and on the continent have joined music critics in acclaiming his interpretations. The great Belgian conductor succeeded in making a series of six Beethoven concert successes in Minneapolis, after pessimistic predictions.

But despite Mr. Verbrugghen's pre-eminence as a Beethoven conductor he is equally noted for his interpretations of the more modern orchestral works. The compositions of Tschalkowsky and other Russian masters, and the best works of the modern French composers find a frequent place on his programs, and he has few equals as a conductor of the Wagnerian works. His programs are unexcelled in freedom from tradition, in keen espousal of every national school and in discriminate championship of the newer music still to be recognized.

Mr. Verbrugghen became conductor of the orchestra in the fall of 1923. He is a Belgian, was born in Brussels where as a boy he was a favorite violin pupil of Eugene Ysaie. As concert master of several noted European orchestras, he gained the experience and musical tradition which fitted him for his subsequent career. He achieved a long record of brilliant success as a conductor in Paris, London, Munich, and Petrograd. In 1915 he was called to Sydney, Australia, by the minister of education. Within a short time he created a fine symphony orchestra

DIRT HIGHWAYS ARE IN FAIR CONDITION

Dirt roads throughout the county were in fair condition Monday for the first time in several weeks, according to rural carriers. Road patrolmen have been grading and dragging some sections and farmers living on roads where no patrolmen are on duty have volunteered their help and put the roads in good shape. While it was possible to get through before this week, there always was danger of becoming mired in a mud hole. Most of these holes have been filled or covered over.

Brawn Bread

You will scarcely believe Brawn Bread is a health bread. It's too delicious—too full of rich flavor and tantalizing goodness. But it is a health bread—made from whole wheat that supplies elements of buoyant vitality business men so often lack—the mineral salts—the energy-giving calories—and the waste clarifying bran food.

Eat Brawn Bread—regularly—and you'll get out of the "Tired Business Man" class.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
BILLY WELLS, head of the glove department of the Curtis Store, NYDA LOMAX, of the cosmetic counter, WINNER SHELTON, and a score of other girls, almost all pretty, win prizes in an intriguing contest staged by T. Q. CURTIS, the millionaire owner.

Billy participates in the contest in spite of the protests of CLAY CURTIS, son of old T. Q., who suspects his father's scheme. Clay has voluntarily dis-inherited himself and is living in the Wells home in the poor section of the city, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. Billy is suspicious of Clay's father, too, and her doubts are heightened when the old man announces a second contest. This time each girl is to write an essay telling what she would do if she had one hundred thousand dollars.

Jealousies and misunderstandings spring up among the girls and among the contestants in the second contest and the store morale slumps alarmingly. On Tuesday, the day of the award, "old T. Q." sends each participant a sealed envelope. Just as Billy is about to open hers, a customer calls her attention. She meets the strange, dark eyes of the man before her. It is some time after his departure that she remembers to open the envelope. She is a winner. She has a premonition that she is on the verge of a tremendous change involving herself, old T. Q., her future — and this strange man. The letter asks her to be in Curtis' private office at 5:35.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

A hand laid on her shoulder startled Billy Wells into attention. It was T. Q. Curtis.

"How's the little spiff?" he asked her in a low voice.

"Oh, Mr. Curtis," Nyda Lomax's throaty, contralto voice called out excitedly. "We're simply dying with curiosity to find out the results."

"All here?" T. Q. no first prize — smile at them and strode past Billy to his desk. "I won't keep you long."

From a sheet of paper lying on his desk he began to read, in his clipped, stern voice, which had effectively silenced the flutter of greetings and thanks.

"Miss Winnie Shelton, Miss Blanche Corwin, Miss Nyda Lomax, Miss Billy Wells, Miss Lela Sampson, Miss Carrie Worth, Miss Alice Paul, Miss Pearl Hadley, Miss Doris Brown, and Miss Lottie Shumate. All here?"

A chorus of "Yes, sir," answered him.

"Now, ladies, this has been a peculiar contest from first to last. There was no effort on my part to award first, second or third prizes. Miss Shelton, whose name I happened to read first, is not winner of the first prize since there is no first prize."

"I presume most of you know that my store family is all the family I have now," he went on in a quiet voice, faintly edged with bitterness. "I am a lonely man, not so young as I was, and my home is often dull and lonely for the lack of young life in it."

Billy raised a trembling hand to her lips, as if she were afraid the cry in her heart would force its way out betrayingly. Girls standing about her drew in their breath sharply, looked at each other in blank astonishment.

"For a long time I've wanted to be a closer friend to the young people in my store than I am," he continued, with grave courtesy. "It may have been a foolish way, but I hit on these two contests as a way to find among you the girls and women whose ambitions and interests and ideas would most interest me. I thought to find among you those who could, in a real sense, be my friends. I trust that you will not leave this room with false impressions and carry them to the other members of my store family. I do not wish to cause heartaches or jealousies among them. I shall undoubtedly find other ways in which to get better acquainted with them all — men and women, boys and girls — simply used these two contests as a starting point."

He paused, and his eyes roved searchingly from face to face, as if he doubted the wisdom of what he had done and said. Billy, watching him with astonishment and pity in her clear blue eyes, fought back an impulse to cry out at him, warningly. "Oh, you're wrong, wrong!" You're heartache for all of us. Stop! Stop! laying out trouble for yourself and Don't be so selfishly foolish!"

"I hope you ladies will not be disappointed at the odd reward I have planned for you, as a token of my appreciation of your work in this contest. I want you all to be my guests in my home, for a dinner and dance on next Monday evening."

He paused, and then looked down upon their astonished, disappointed, bewildered faces, with that quizzical, very grim of his.

"I shall try to see that you have a very good time," he resumed, a little stiffly, and Billy sensed that their unspoken resentment pained him. "It will be a formal dinner party, and your ten dinner partners will of course wear correct evening clothes. I am inviting the men myself, from among my young men business associates in Colfax. You will meet them at my house, of course. I shall provide suitable transportation for you to and from my home. Now if I know anything about the female mind, every mother's daughter of you is saying to herself, 'I haven't got a thing to wear.' I've thought of that. I'm going to try, between now and Monday evening, to think of everything that will insure a good time for all. As you all know, Mrs. Lester, the buyer for misses' and ladies' dresses, is just back from New York. While she was there she bought in a fine stock of evening dresses, to retail at around fifty dollars. I've seen them, and I doubt if Colfax ever saw a handomer lot of party dresses at the price. Brenner will say a lot of fancy things about them in his ads, but I think you'll find they're just the kind of dresses you'd like to own."

Pretty, drooping faces had lifted and revived like flowers in a June shower. Two or three girls cried out involuntarily with pleasure and excitement.

"Now, ladies, before those dresses are placed on sale, you can have your pick of them, as a present from old T. Q."

He grinned at his use of their nickname for him. "I'm also instructing the shoe department and the hosiery department to let each one of you pick out a pair of evening slippers and a pair of silk stockings — your choice of anything the store has to sell — and charge them to my account. Now I hope you ain't too much disappointed in your prizes," he added whimsically. "I declare, I don't know what's got into old T. Q." Mrs. Corwin, a stout, pleasant-faced widow, whispered to Billy. "You mark my words, he'll be sorry he ever started this foolish business before he hears the last of it."

"I'm afraid so," Billy answered almost gloomily, though her heart had raced with delight at the thought of owning — all new at the same time — an evening dress, a pair of evening slippers and exquisite silk hose.

"There's just one thing before I say good night," T. Q. stepped behind his desk, putting the clamoring girls at a discreet distance. "I've arranged for Mrs. Lester to show you the dresses between now and six thirty, and tomorrow morning between half past eight and nine, before the store opens. There are a hundred dresses in the lot, of all sizes, and I'm sure you can find something you like that will fit you. All alterations will, of course, be charged to me. Now, ladies, Mrs. Lester is waiting for you in the French room on the third floor, and if any of you can't spare the time this evening, why, she'll be glad to see you in the morning."

The girls hardly paused to reiterate their thanks, crowding in a laughing, excited group to the door.

Billy was borne along with the crowd, Lela Sampson's hot, perspiring hand tugging at hers. But over the all alterations will, of course, be charged to me. CAN RATIONALIZE INDUSTRY IN U. S., HOUSTON BELIEVES

Great Prosperity Here and Improvement in Europe Have Made It Possible

Genoa.—(AP)—Great prosperity of the United States during the past four years and continued improvement in the European situation have contributed to the practical application of "rationalization of industry" in the United States.

That is the view of David P. Houston, former secretary of agriculture who sent a special report to the international economic conference which opened Wednesday.

Houston includes under the term "rationalization" the three elements of stabilization, standardization and presses the belief that the rationalization of industry may be fostered by agencies of statistical information with a view to the development of industrial budgets. With the help of this system, he declares, firms are seriously endeavoring to build up rational programs of future work, bearing in mind both internal and external influences.

It is necessary to control economic factors and provide for the future, Houston believes. One of the most interesting aspects of the problem, he remarks, lies in the efforts of American businessmen to stabilize employment and standardize and simplify industry. He recalls that in 1921 the United States department of commerce played an important part in this sphere and that there are instances where their efforts have succeeded in producing a reduction of 97 per cent in the number of varieties produced of certain articles.

Houston concludes with the observation that the progress rationalization has made in American industry has been mainly due to the willingness of American businessmen, in spite of the highly competitive conditions, to cooperate with one another.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: AFTER SEEING HIS 26 CARDS, DECLARER SHOULD TRY TO MAKE GAME IF GAME BE POSSIBLE BY ANY METHOD OF PLAY.

The importance of the above pointer cannot be too strongly emphasized. Game is the first, foremost and greatest desideratum of the Declarer. When playing Progressive or Duplicate, games carries 125 points with it; when playing rubbers, two games give a bonus of 250 points. Therefore, game should be the Declarer's goal. Game from a love score at No Trump is nine tricks, at a Major suit ten tricks, and at a Minor suit eleven tricks.

The following hand was given yesterday

South is playing a No Trump contract and, Eight of Clubs being led,

Dummy would win the first trick with the Ten. Declarer looking for game would then see that with one more Club, trick assured and only one Heart trick possible. It is necessary to make three Diamond tricks and three Spade tricks. The odds in favor of making three Spade tricks are three to one, because in only one deal out of four will five cards of an adverse suit be divided so that four are in one adverse hand. Making three Diamonds depends upon the position of the adverse King. Declarer therefore should plan to finesse the Diamonds twice and to make up the Spades, losing one Spade. In this way the game can be made if the Diamond finesses succeed. Dummy will only get one more lead, so one Diamond finesse must be tried at once.

Yesterday's answer slip should read: On trick 2, North should lead the Two of Diamonds, and South should play the Queen of Diamonds. If Declarer win trick 2, on trick 3 he should lead a Spade.

A good plan of procedure would be

BETTER COUNTIES CONTEST IN STATE

Social Work Conference Prepares to Compare Living Conditions

Madison.—(AP)—Wisconsin is now to see a contest to determine "the best county in which to rear children," Aubrey W. William, general secretary of (trick 3) to lead the Ace of Spades from Closed Hand; (trick 4) follow with a small Spade and Duck. With the Club returned (as would doubtless be the case) the Spades would be established and Dummy would have the King of Spades as an entry for the second Diamond finesse. John F. Dille Co.

the state Conference of Social work, said today.

Standards of social efficiency of rural communities in the state are being worked out by a committee of the Conference. Prof. J. H. Kolb, University of Wisconsin is head of this committee. He is assisted by Miss Elizabeth Yerxa, Madison, Miss Jennie Brown, Fond du Lac, Miss T. R. Sewall, Stevens Point, Walter Distelhorst, Sheboygan, G. R. Schaefer, Appleton, Hugh Harper, Lancaster, George Nelson, Milwaukee.

No More Shiny Noses

If the face powder you now use does not stay on long enough to suit you—does not keep that ugly shine away indefinitely—does not make your skin colorful like a peach—try this new wonderful special French Process Face Powder called MELLO-GLO. Remember the name MELLO-GLO. There's nothing like it. Pettibone-Peabody Co. adv.

When standards are worked out by the committee they will be used in surveys of Racing, Kenosha, Sheboygan and Richland counties. With the measurement schedules refined to a point of scientific accuracy by their use in these surveys, "the state-wide better counties contest," similar to the better cities contest of 1926 will be started.

Nine state departments and a number of professional organizations have pledged their support to the movement.
